A leading feature of Greek life was the great Olympic festival, held every fourth year at Olympia. In the sacred place, on the banks of the river Alpheus, athletes as well as musicians, poets and artists, from all parts of Greece, gathered to compete for the sacred olive wreaths. The Olympic games were far more than idle sport to the Greeks, for they represented all that they held to be most worthy in human life. The competition had a deep religious significance and all the games were dedicated to Zeus.

Only the most skilled athletes entered the matches, but there were other qualifications besides athletic prowess. One had to be a free born Greek of unmixed blood and possess an unblemished reputation. To win an event was the greatest honor one could receive. Each winner had his own triumphal march to his home.

So sacred did the Greeks consider these games, that a truce was declared if any of the states were at war, so that both athletes and spectators from all the states could travel and watch in safety. Thus the Olympics even to this day have been associated with peace.

It is because of the great significance of the Olympics that we have chosen it as the theme of our Murivian. We do not want to dedicate this year book to the Olympic games themselves but to the ideals for which it has stood since its conception. It is our fervent hope that from this momentous, international athletic competition world peace will emerge.

School Committee

Scarcely anything is done in the Brookline School Department which does not, directly or indirectly, concern the School Committee. Brookline's schools can already boast of some of the highest standards in the country, but they still continue to bring constant progress and improvement to our educational system.

One of the most prominent members of this organization is the superintendent of schools, Dr. Ernest R. Caverly. Dr. Caverly is celebrating this year, his twenty fifth anniversary of active service in this post. Much has happened since he first took office in 1932. Brookline's schools have expanded tremendously to meet the needs of a growing population and our reputation has grown so that we can be increasingly proud of all our schools. Dr. Caverly can well be proud of the prestige he has gained for himself and Brookline through his many years of labor on our behalf.

Dr. Caverly: 25 years of unselfish service.

HEADMASTER

Greetings to the Class of 1957:

It has been my privilege to know you for the brief span of only a few months but in that time I have come to respect you for your true worth. Each passing day has brought to me some new facet of your character which has enhanced my opinion of you individually and as a class. I am sure that if it were possible for me to continue to get better and better acquainted with you that I would steadily increase my admiration for you.

I am confident that the leadership you have demonstrated and the service you have given to Brookline High School will broaden and grow as you move out into ever larger fields of endeavor.

I bid you Godspeed as you leave your Alma Mater.

Sincerely,
BERTRAM H. HOLLAND

BUSINESS DEPARTMENT

In laying the foundations for the future careers in business, the B.H.S. business department offers instruction in book-keeping, typing, stenography, business law, and other general training courses. The chance for success in these fields grows daily. Realizing the great need for business skills in both boys and girls, Mr. Ehnes, who has planned the program, and his faculty who execute these plans, try to give adequate training, so that the student may either continue his studies upon graduation. Brookline can well be proud that it contains so practical a department.

Row 1: Miss Greenshields, Miss Hamblin, Mr. Ehnes (chrm.), Mrs. Stewart. Row 2: Mr. Dunbar, Mr. Wall, Mr. Avory.

LATIN DEPARTMENT

Studies of the classical life and languages, are still as important as ever, and should never be forgotten. The Latin Department, though small in size, is immense in importance and influence, in that not only does it give the student a picture of ancient life and culture, but also helps him in his understanding and command of the English language. The military greatness of Caesar, the brilliant oratories of Cicero, and the literary genius of Virgil, all become familiar to the Latin student under the watchful guidance of Miss Webster, Miss Manter and Miss Vanacare, who heads this important department.

MATH DEPARTMENT

For any student planning either a business or a scientific future, the mathematics department lays solid foundations upon which to base future training. As for the rest of us, we too use math is some way each day of our lives. No matter what paths we might follow, the power of logical thinking, developed through mathematical experience will be invaluable. Under the direction of Miss Zelinka, the math department, tries to prepare us better for the increasingly complicated world in which we live. Today, more than ever before, mathematical skills are essential for the development of an improved world.

Row 1: Mrs. Ginty, Miss Bates, Mr. Ward (Head of Dept.), Miss Anderson, Miss Zelinka. Row 2: Mr. Moulton, Mr. Fitzgerald, Mr. Barg, Mr. Downes, Mr. Bruce.

MODERN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

This world-minded department offers courses in three of the most important and widely used languages of the European world: French, Spanish, and German. By learning the vocabulary, grammatical constructions and pronunciation, we familiarize ourselves with the language itself, and by reading the literature of the country, we come to know the people. Each teacher in the department, which is headed by Miss O'Brien, has had extensive travel experience, and through this experience, they are able to impart to the students, not only the language, but also customs, traits, and other distinguishing characteristics of the country.

Row 1: Miss Ioconis, Miss Pfleghaar, Miss O'Brien (Head of Dept.), Mrs. Thompson, Miss Tondreou. Row 2: Mr. Rinaldi, Mr. Goodrich, Mr. Friedland, Mr. Mather, Dr. Shepard.

MUSIC

We take great pride in our three musical groups here at Brookline High. Our band, orchestra, and vocal groups show results far superior to the usual high school level. A beginner in the musical department can take courses designed to quickly teach new skills, and the gifted students have every opportunity to further develop their ability. This department is not only for the talented students, the music appreciation course is offered to make it possible for anyone with an interest in this form of art to gain a complete understanding of all the different types of music.

Row 1: Mr. Corley (Head of Dept.), Mr. Booth. Row 2: Mr. Josephs, Mr. Joslin.

ART STAFF

The faculty of the art department is devoted to helping each and every student, who elects this program to develop his or her own ability in the large and varied field of art. Courses are offered for both the beginner, who has had no previous training, and for the more advanced student. There is an opportunity for students to experiment in many mediums until they find the one which appeals to them the most, and in which they can develop their skills most rapidly. The art department helps many other organizations, such as the Dramatic Society, which has its settings designed in the art workshop.

Art may be taken either once or twice a week, or every day as a full credit course.

Row 1: Miss Horn, Miss Peckhom. Row 2: Mr. Lomb, Mrs. Woodberry.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

Beginning with the freshman's first exposure to B.H.S. English, up to his final day, the English department, operating under the direction of Miss Spaulding, strives to teach the student to think, write, and speak in a manner that will enable him to present a cultured, well-bred appearance in the years to come. He is also taught to analize and appreciate the works of writers, poets, and dramatists, both past and present. A good background in English is necessary to everybody in every field, but for those who wish to develop skills in the field of creative writing, a special course, given by Mr. Newsom, is offered.

Row 1: Mrs. Joseph, Miss Johnson, Miss Sawyer, Miss Spaulding (Head of Dept.), Miss Shaw, Miss Tiews, Miss Randell. Row 2: Mr. Newson, Dr. Campbell, Mr. Jordan, Mr. Wilkinson, Miss Deal, Mr. Schluntz, Mr. Walsh, Mr. Weeks, Mr. Seomons.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

The primary purpose of the industrial arts department is to offer those boys who wish to secure employment after graduation an excellent preparation in a specific vocation. This specialized education is achieved by giving the boys practical experience with various tools and machines connected with their chosen field. Courses are offered in auto, print, and electrical shops, mechanical drawing and metal working. Every graduate from this department is more than well prepared for a wide variety of highly skilled jobs.

Row 1: Mr. McCabe, Mr. Edmunds, Mr. Bowler. Row 2: Mr. Ford, Mr. Beauchemin, Mr. MocMillan.

LIBRARY STAFF

Our school library is by far the most visited section of the high school. We would be lost without this constant source of information, which enables us to fulfill our assignments successfully, or without the assistance of the library staff, which is always there to help every student find just what he is looking for. The members of this staff are always busy, either teaching students how to use the library or setting up displays to help them choose their reading matter. The staff often gives talks designed to prompt students to delve into the wealth of books and recordings which our library holds.

Row 1: Mrs. Bontempo, Miss Sioros. Row 2: Miss Henry, Mrs. Mortin..

ADMINISTRATION

The running of a school this size is a complicated affair with endless records to be filled out and kept in order, not to mention the hundreds of individual questions that must be answered. The administration department, only a small group of secretaries, manages to perform all these tasks and keep Brookline High running smoothly while still finding time to do more than is required for any student asking for help.

Row 1: Mrs. Wode, Miss O'Leory. Row 2: Mrs. Hanely, Miss Nilond.

SOCIAL STUDIES DEPARTMENT

Brookline High School offers its students a chance to gain not only a thorough knowledge of past history, but a deep awareness of the significance of today's events and how they will effect the world we live in. Only American History is compulsory, yet most students take one or more of the social studies courses which include World Civilization, Modern History, Problems of Democracy, and Human Relations. This department makes for a better appreciation of our democracy and an understanding of other countries' histories and governments.

Row 1: Miss McCabe, Miss Weedon, Mr. Powers (Head of Dept.), Mr. Merrill, Mrs. Hartely. Row 2: Mr. Dobras, Mr. Young, Mr. Howard, Mr. Meyers, Mr. Smith, Mr. Coe.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Brookline, as most towns, is deeply concerned with supplying each of its students with a sufficient amount of recreation and physical activity, so that its youth will have both strong minds and strong bodies. The Brookline High School physical education department, under the direction of Mr. Hines, offers an extremely varied plan of physical exercise including special remedial gym classes, ballroom and square dancing, as well as a regular curricula of apparatus work and sports. Not only do these activities aid the student's health, but they serve to increase his interest in all sports.

Row 1: Miss Bullen, Mr. Hines (Head of Dept.), Miss Kelly, Mrs. Bruska. Row 2: Mr. Bemis, Mr. Weygant, Mr. Ball.

HOMEMAKING

The home making department prepares its girls to assume the leading roles in their future homes. Under the direction of Miss Cronin, the girls take courses in proper budgeting, food preparation, and general house management, for in each of these fields there is an endless wealth of information to be learned. These students use the most modern and up-to-date facilities in their classes, and all the girls who graduate from this department will be among the most skilled, and practical homemakers of tomorrow.

Row 1: Miss Catan, Miss Cronin, Miss Egan.
Row 2: Mrs. Means, Miss Barr, Miss Sauth.

SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

A student at Brookline High School has the opportunity to take a science course each of his four years. He starts on the fundamentals of General science and works his way through Biology, Chemistry, and finally in his senior year to physics. Through these courses, the science department, under the supervision of Mr. Hollingworth, inspires many of our graduates to continue the study of science throughout college and in their professions.

Row 1: Miss Campbell, Miss Bruce, Dr. Hallingworth, Miss Abel, Miss Driscall, Mr. Keene. Row 2: Mr. D'Aniella, Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Fuller, Mr. Warren, Mr. Wells Mr. Parfitt, Mr. Lawe.

To Roberts House, Class of 1957

In your years at Brookline High School many successes have come to you as a House and as individuals. In all of these accomplishments I have taken sincere pride. There have been disappointments too and many of those I have shared with you. Now you are beginning a new and more independent life in which there will also be disappointments and successes. My hope for each of you is that your successes will be many, and that you will meet the inevitable disappointments with the courage and honesty which mark a mature person.

My interest and pride in you and in all that you achieve will continue wherever you are or whatever you do. Godspeed to each of you.

Clarice J. Weeden

After twelve sheltered years in school you have now come only to the end of the beginning. Some of you will start a new and, I hope an exciting academic life. Others will enter the exacting world of the gainfully employed. All will face perplexing problems in an increasingly complicated world. Whatever you face, my hope is that you will always be "strong in will to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

LINCOLN HOUSE

With three quarters of our high school life passed, and the very important final quarter ahead we are satisfied but not content. We have gained in self-control and community consciousness. We have developed many real athletes, scholars and leaders in many activities. All of our accomplishments have been achieved in a happy vein.

Next year will prove whether or not the good foundation laid will permit the completion of our high school careers to everyones' satisfaction. I have every confidence in your individual and collective success.

Warren L. Bartlett

"The best is yet to be"

The year that lies ahead of you can be your most enjoyable, and also your most rewarding year in high school. You have gained in wisdom and in stature. Use your time and energy wisely, realizing that for some of you it will be your last year of formal education. For many of you it will be a stepping stone to more advanced fields of education.

Nellie M. Campbell

To the Members of Akers House:

We are midstream and here the waters are the most dangerous! Looking only a few months ahead we see aptitude tests, college board examinations selections of school and vocation. Our reputations will undergo special scrutiny this year, for each of your teachers will rate you and your personality. Examine yourselves honestly! Your superiors will be asked to comment on your character, integrity, ability and punctuality. Will you be proud of their judgment?

This is the home stretch! Miss Bruce and I are rooting for you!

Carmen P. Rinaldi

To Akers House, greetings!

You have now reached the half-way mark in Brookline High School. Most of you can look back with some satisfaction and ahead with confidence. Looking back you become aware of your own individual growth in class spirit and in maturity of outlook. Looking ahead you get a vision of greater individual attainment and of our Akers House that will be long and fondly remembered. I have good faith in you!

Katherine L. Bruce

PACKARD HOUSE

Likely story

One year of our four years has passed most happily and successfully. If this year is a prelude to the next three, there are big things ahead for us in all fields: academic, athletic, and social. "AIM HIGH" is our motto and with this in mind there can be no limits to our accomplishments.

Dr. John C. Packard, for whom our house is named, once stated: "Life in high school offers you the means to build character, scholarship, leadership, and integrity."

Let us use all these means that Brookline High School offers to make ourselves better members of society.

We look forward eagerly to these next years working together.

Good luck to you in all your undertakings and God bless you is the sincere wish of

MURIVIAN EDITORIAL STAFF

After months of struggling to meet the deadlines so that we could have this book ready for all of you on time, at last we can present the 1957 "Murivian" to Brookline High.

With a co-operative staff and an ambitious Editor-in-Chief, Johnny Rubinstein, we've somehow managed to overcome the pitfalls and obstacles in our path. Of course we have tried to keep in the "Murivian" all the features we know you, of the student body anticipate, but we have each also tried to add a little originality so that the book will have a new flavor. The going hasn't always been completely smooth, but we have done our best and honestly feel that our "Murivian" is worthy of our efforts.

MURIVIAN BUSINESS STAFF

When I asked the head of the Murivian Business staff, Joel Goldberg, what his duties entailed, he modestly replied that he and his staff "just handle the money." It is hard to realize however, just how great a job this can be. The first and most difficult step is of course convincing the student body to buy the Murivian. Even to sell this book some salesmanship talent is needed. During their initial campaign and during the three installments following, the entire staff can be found every day in Mr. Bates's room, busily engaged in adding and subtracting the large sums of money which have been collected in order to insure each student's receival of the yearbook.

Without the work of the business staff, no Murivian could be printed. Each dollar is urgently needed to cover the heavy expenses involved in putting together of a yearbook. The Business Staff through their constant co-operation with us, have made it possible for us to present to you a yearbook we know you will enjoy.

About once every two months the students at Brookline High catch up on all the latest news around the school. On this fine day the Sagamore is distributed, and homeroom period is a pandamonium while everyone rushes to buy the latest copy. Besides the feature articles there are sports, music, club data, and of course "Who's Who." Merely the size of the Sagamore's circulation is adequate proof of the superiority of this newspaper. In recent years the Sagamore has been the recipient of many statewide and local awards further attesting to the fact that Brookline can well boast of one of the finest school papers in the country.

A new name, a new face, a new "Freshman's Bible" which still includes all the valuable information found in the old "Student's Manuel." Floor plans, directories, bell schedules, Alpha-Pi information, club and sports news, all are still to be found in this informative and interesting booklet. The "Index" is essential to freshmen, helpful to upper classmen, and generally enjoyed by all. Its importance ties in the fact that it is written not only for members of the high school, but also for all those who visit us for the first time and want to know what's what at B.H.S.

We take student government very much for granted at Brookline High School, but this is only natural, because the activities of the school have always run smoothly and successfully under this system. We have here at Brookline a well organized democracy at the head of which is a group of students, elected from their individual houses, to serve the school. Just what are the responsibilities of "serving the school?" According to Bobby Leverant, president of this ruling body, they include just about everything. The council grants charters to all student organizations, settles disputes, regulates elections of school and house officers, approves all dances and their fund raising activities in addition to being responsible for the lunchroom and corridors.

Court of Justice

You can't have law and have no means of enforcing it. Just as the Amateur Athletic Union enforces the rules of the Olympics, so the Court of Justice enforces the laws of Brookline High. To do this the court works in close collaboration with the marshal force. Since no marshal may become a justice, the court is kept completely impartial. But as any of our wayward students will tell you, it is also very efficient. The court actually serves to ease the burden of the teachers, but its main importance lies in the fact that through its operations, students learn not only to respect the law, but to apply it at their own level.

Marshals

The arm of the law is long here at Brookline High. Those who have heedlessly ignored a marshal, standing on his corridor post, can have no doubt of that. Marshals, working under floor captains, are stationed in strategic places throughout the corridors to keep traffic orderly, and at each table in the lunchroom to maintain pleasant eating conditions, and in corridors during fourth period, aiding teachers by heroically keeping back the mobs. Marshals are chosen by their homerooms or are elected at large for a term of one year. Their work is essential to a well-run, orderly school.

But the marshal said it was alright.

Alpha Phi

Leadership and scholarship, both are necessary for admission to Alpha Pi. We call it our honorary society, but actually it is much more than just this, for all its members are all around students, who have worked not only for their own benefit, but also for the good of Brookline High. Alpha Pi is an exclusive organization. Its keys are awarded only to those who have proved themselves worthy of them. This year as usual, a new group of students was initiated into the service of Alpha Pi. It is certain that, under the leadership of Mike Troderman and Mr. Mather, both new members and old will keep the organization's standards as high as ever.

Affiliation

Nice collection.

VISIT FRANCE

Plenty affilioting-no work.

Packages, letters, pictures travel across the Atlantic from France to Brookline and back, helping to promote better relations and deeper understanding between Europe and America. Through the Affiliation Committee we catch a glimpse of student life in Europe academically and socially, just as they learn about us. Last year a Brookline High student attended our affiliated school in France. This year we have invited a student from France to spend April to June at B.H.S. and from July to August touring the country with a Brookline family. It is important to maintain these relationships so that we may view such international affairs as the Olympics with a deeper understanding of the countries with which we are dealing.

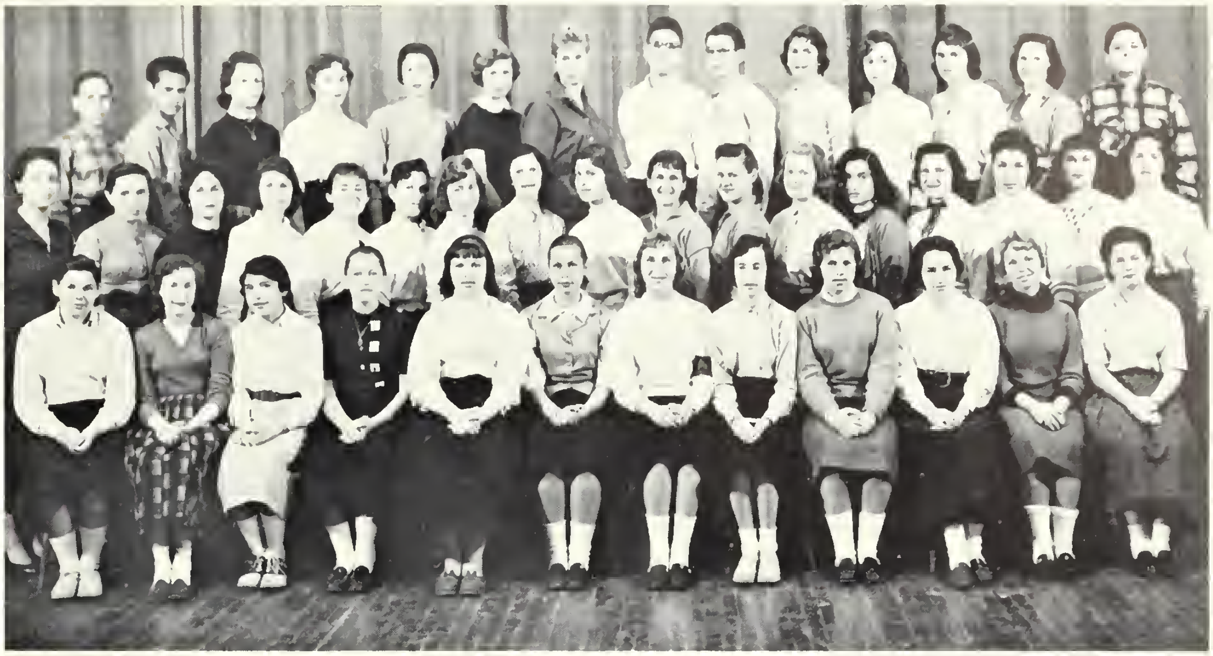
Art Club



Is this art or homemaking?

The only requirements for membership in the Art Club are plenty of imagination and an interest in art. By experimenting with various mediums and combining different techniques, members of this club often produce some startling and original effects. The meetings are not made up entirely of drawing and painting, however, for there are frequent lectures, movies and reviews, plus occasional trips to museums and art galleries. This interesting agenda, planned by faculty advisor Mrs. Woodberry and president Jerri Carro, makes the Art Club one which can be enjoyed by all, both future artists and untalented laymen. Its annual contest is open to the entire school.

At football games, rallies, and at all school functions where spirit is necessary, you can be sure that the B.H.S. Band will be there to add the needed spark. The enthusiasm which greets our band at these affairs is almost similar to the reaction of the crowds at the olympics. Practice is endless, not only for rousing school songs, but also for fine concerts at Brookline, and festivals in various cities throughout New England. The Band is definitely one of the most active and appreciated organizations of the school, for its student leader Robert Rines, and its new faculty advisor, Mr. Booth keep players in top shape; so that B.H.S. will always look upon its band with pride and pleasure.

If you've ever wondered who does the figuring for those enlightening house and home room percentages, which greet our ears every other week, let your search end here. Each bank day, a selected staff, composed of juniors and seniors, collect deposits from home room tellers, and add up the long columns of figures which have to be recorded and totaled. Through their work, students are able to bank for their future, so that when senior year rolls around, bankruptcy will be kept at a minimum, because of thrifty saving throughout the four years. A school bank account, however, is valuable not only in the senior year, but at any time before or after graduation.

Biology Club

Some students collect rare coins or stamps; others are fascinated by unusual plants or curious insects. These latter, of course, are members in good standing, of the biology club. This club was established for the student who is interested enough in biology to desire information on subjects not handled in class. Mr. Keene, who has recently returned from his trip to the Everglades, supplies many of the lectures and demonstrations. The biology room, itself is such a strange and remarkable place, with all its specimens and plant arrangements, that members can come to know much of the wonderful world of nature without ever leaving it. Still, field trips form an important part of the work of the club.

Camera Club

The world famous olympic star has just entered the stadium; there is a blinding flash of camera bulbs, as American photographers crowd around to capture this event in pictures.

Perhaps you would like to be a part of this scene. Unfortunately we all can't be athletic marvels, but, who knows, perhaps some of our Brookline "camera bugs" will someday become star photographers, to record for posterity such momentous occasions of our country. But I'm a bit ahead of myself; one only has to enjoy picture taking in order to retain an active membership in the Camera Club. Through its activities all can learn the arts of photography, which will be practiced and enjoyed throughout life.

Central Treasury

The way of all money? Why through the central treasury of course. Through this organization the money from all the extra curricular activities, house treasuries, and profit-making functions is handled efficiently and safely by the students, chosen from the business department. These students, working with the help of Mr. Ehnes and a few teachers, make sure that our funds go through the proper channels, advise us when we are having financial difficulties. But most important of all they assure us of the necessary funds at the times when we need them.

Twenty years?

Chef's Club

This has nothing to do with the Chef's Club.

There must be a great number of men in the world who are quite skeptical as to women's cooking ability. At least that's what the large membership in the Chefs Club seems to indicate. Of course we must realize that some of the world's greatest cooks are chefs in our famous restaurants. Some of the members of the club may have other interests in life, but they still can enjoy themselves working at various food creations or unusual combinations. The club, which meets during the school day, gives the boys a chance to put their study periods to interesting and enjoyable use.

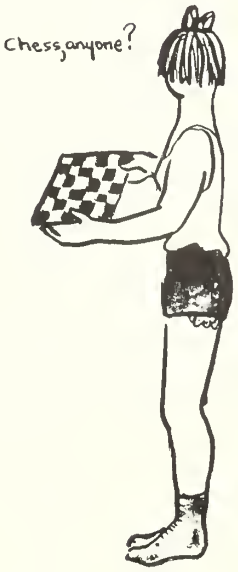
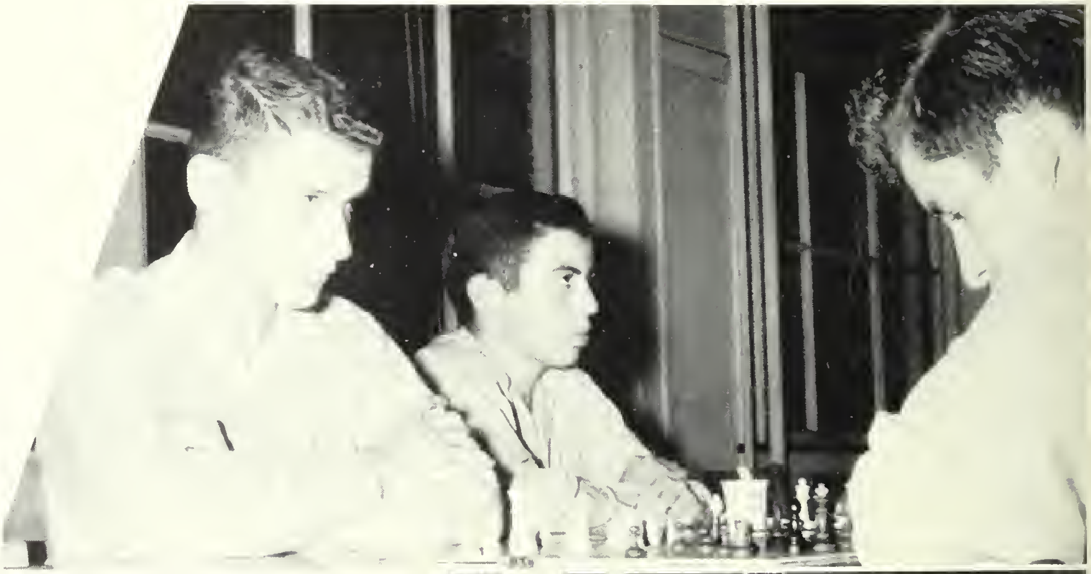
Chess Club



Chess, anyone?



Keep your eyes on it.

Chess, for centuries, has been enjoyed as an international game. Like the olympics, it manages to break through the barriers of language and internal differences to provide enjoyment for all nationalities.

To play the game successfully requires intelligence and patience, and to judge from the number of contests won by Brookline's Chess Club, it would seem that its members possessed both. A game such as this is more important in the bustling modern world of today than ever before, for the few hours spent over a stimulating game of chess can remove all the cares of a busy life from the minds of the players. Even after the game is over, there is the chance to mull over possible moves and study the manoeuvres of the opponent in order to play a more perfect game next time.

Chemistry Club

Sorcerer at work

Somehow, whenever we think of a high school experiment, we imagine some mysterious substance going "BOOM" in the poor scientist's face. At B.H.S., however, the chemistry club, working under the watchful eye of Miss Driscoll, has none of these troubles. Care and precision are the watchwords in all experiments. Still the accomplishment rate is high. In a world where science is so important, members of this club investigate reactions of various chemicals in relation to others, and on a small scale, duplicate the work being done in our country's research laboratories. Such work may lead to a peaceful world, so raise your test tubes everyone: Here's a toast to the future of the chemistry club!

Concert Choir

The talented members of the Concert Choir have long entertained Brookline High with their excellent performances at various school and outside functions. This year's greatest project was an inspiring program at Christmas featuring Handel's "Messiah." Any student has the opportunity to try out for this club, and this year there was an eighty percent turnover from last year's membership, with the choir still maintaining its high standards and excellent quality.

In order to keep in top condition, members of the concert choir hold regular rehearsals four times a week during fifth period, plus sectional rehearsals after school once a week. These are directed by Mr. Joseph and are enjoyed by the singers almost as much as their performances are enjoyed by the student body.

Debating

An argumentative nature is not something to be wished for, but it can be developed and put to use in an effective debate. The one hundred members of the debating can argue to their hearts' content over a broad and varied range of subjects in the many intramural and interscholastic debates sponsored by B.H.S. Headed by Matthew Zion and faculty advisor Mrs. Joseph, the society holds meetings every third Thursday and supplements its regular program by a debating tournament and voluntary clinics, which are designed to give a good foundation in the fundamentals of debate. Such a society is beneficial to its members in that it helps them gain in judgment, reasoning and consequently leads them to a more successful life.

Dramatic Society

The Dramatic Society has taken on both a new faculty advisor and an entirely new and vital program. Under Mrs. Randall's leadership, three one act plays have already been presented, and there is promise of more to come. Those who watched the performances of "Fumed Oak" by Noel Coward, "Happy Journey" by Thornton Wilder, and "Rinders Keepers" by George Kelly will agree with me that the Dramatic Society has now become one of the most creative and interesting clubs at Brookline High. Its hard-working members are gaining experience in both acting and behind-the-scenes work, while its fortunate audiences are deriving pleasure from its excellent performances.

It couldn't be that funny.

Place the tongue against the teeth.

As you walk by the home economics room, you can't help noticing the sweet odor of home cooking drifting throughout the area. This is no accident; this is the work of the skilled Future Home Makers of America.

Unfortunately, a real home maker is a rare thing indeed in this world of cans and can openers. Yet, the members of the F.H.A. manage to keep alive the old art while learning all the new methods of home making. Trying unusual food ideas, going on picnics, giving parties, and attending other functions keep the enthusiastic future house wives constantly busy. This is the only organization of its kind in the high school, and its program gives tremendous advantages to its members.

French Club

That's Jahn Faster Dulles in the middle.

A weekend in Paris-ho-hum.

There is no better way to learn French than to speak it and hear it spoken. This is the purpose of the French club and the reason that our native language is practically barred from all the meetings. Games, songs, plays, formal and informal discussions, and refreshments are featured in the bi-monthly meetings, which are led by Mike Troderman and are under the supervision of Miss Tondreau. For obvious reasons, the French club is opened only to those who have some skill in French. More than just the language si learned at these meetings, however, for the lives and habits of the French people become all the membres de Cercl Francaise.

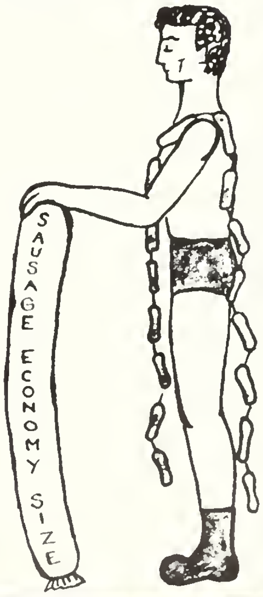
German Club

So what's the joke?



The German club presents its members with interesting and informative commentaries of both German life and language. By familiarizing its members with the customs and people of Germany, the club increases the students general knowledge of German and thus causes regular classroom work to become increasingly interesting. The club, which is directed by faculty advisor Mr. Friedland and led by president Alan Entis maintains a small but extremely active membership. The meetings, as a result, are informal and very enjoyable.

This is really quite entertaining

Acquaintance parties, business meetings, song contests, teas, supper parties, auctions, fashion shows, workshops, Thanksgiving programs, Christmas programs——and the Girls' League continues this overwhelming schedule from September straight through to June! The club, which is open to every girl in the school, and is probably Brookline High's largest organization, not only manages to take all the above mentioned activities in stride, but also performs a great amount of service work for the community, and handles the "lost and found" for the school. Every member of the League, as large as it is, has some place in its work. Its numerous committees are usually open to all, and its active members derive pleasure and experience from working in this give-and-take atmosphere with their peers.

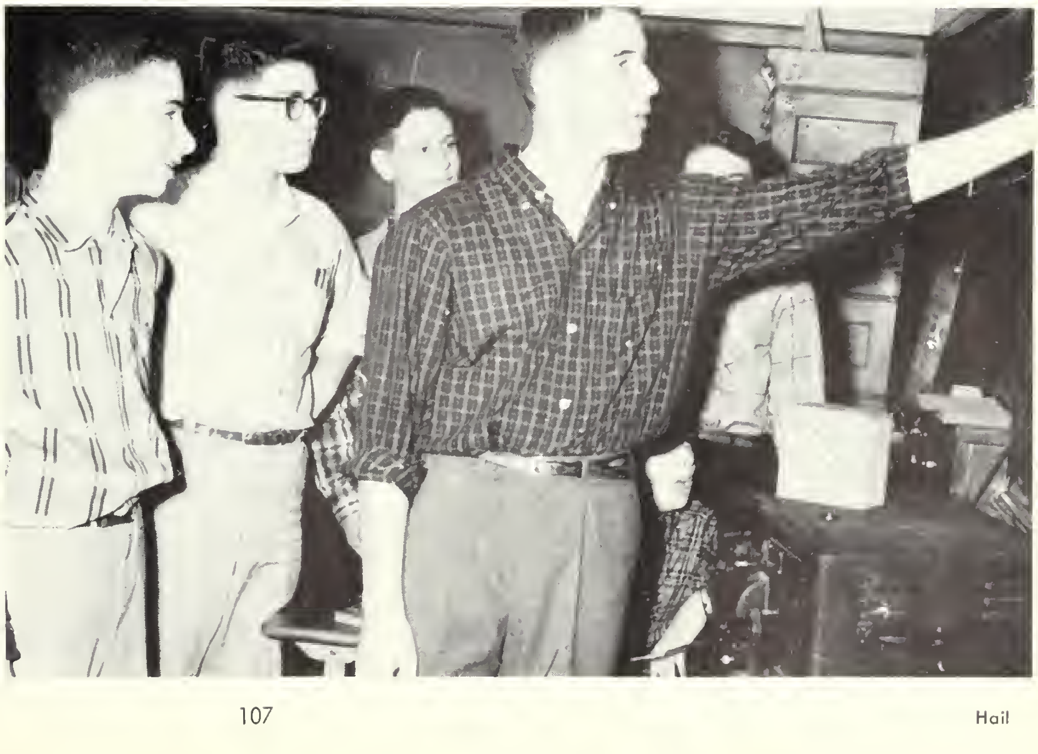
"M 3—This is M 3 calling Melbourne Australia—Can you hear me? How are we doing there?"——This is how a radio ham might follow the exciting olympics; yet ,as the ever-busy air waves transmit Brookline's voices across the country and maybe even farther, our school's radio operators do more than just communicate with their fellow hams in various places. One of the most important functions of the Ham Radio Club is to teach its members the intricacies of radio and its operation. The radio sets used are difficult to build and quite complicated. In order to obtain a license, as many members have done, one must be thoroughly familiar with the morse code and other technical knowledge. This takes work, but the rewards are great, and as the club is growing in size, so is the number of licensed members increasing from year to year.



Brookline High School has a branch of the nationally famous Red Cross supported entirely by our own students. Through the years these pupils have spent much time and effort in helping the needy both at home and abroad. Every year the Junior Red Cross heads a school-wide drive which sends gift boxes to children overseas who are less fortunate than us. This year's drive was extremely successful and we are very proud of this unselfish organization which has done so much for so many.

Hi smiley

With the greatest active membership in its history, the Latin Club, under the very capable leadership of Susie Shapiro, has enjoyed one of the busiest and exciting years since it was first established. The club is designed, not only to supplement regular class work, but also to present to Latin Students a deeper understanding of our classical heritage. The club has expanded its regular activities by its participation, for the first time, in the Junior Classical League. As usual, Members of the club have enjoyed numerous trips to places of classical interest in and around Boston.

Library Aides

Finding a book out of the thousands in Brookline High's well-stocked library is not a very difficult task. This statement might amaze many who have never been to our library, but it should come as no surprise to those who have been patiently and courteously aided in their quest for knowledge by the schools library aids. These students devote a good deal of their time to guiding others in their school's archives. Not only do they help you find exactly what you are looking for, but they also help our regular librarians in keeping the shelves well-stocked and the books correctly stamped out. Without the work of the library aids we could not possibly hope to keep the library as efficient as it is now.

A very studious girl.

What an interesting job.

If you've read any good books lately, that you're dying to tell someone about, or written any original pieces you're anxious for an opinion on, then the place for you is the literary society. This club is divided into two sections—the readers group and the writers' group—so that each member may concentrate on his own particular interest. Members of the club engage in informal discussions concerning books, various literary pieces and their authors in the readers' group and discussion on original selections in the writers' group. Through these activities, students become familiar with literary techniques of the literary greats; this knowledge proves invaluable in English classes.

Math Society

The Math Society may not be open to the average student, but those who are able to accept its challenge have the fun and experience of delving into the many forms of higher mathematics. Through the combination of films, speakers and participation in the science fair, members learn how to apply their training to today's modern living conditions. They may not all become great physicists, but then again—this type of training may prove to be the basis of future contributions to our country or even to world peace. It is certain that those who do enjoy and appreciate mathematics need such an organization to supplement regular training and provide an incentive for future work.

Orchestra

It is really hard to believe that the professional sounding music accompanying the school's plays, concerts, assemblies and graduation ceremonies really comes from Brookline's own musicians. Conducted by Mr. Joslin, the Orchestra has always maintained its high standards and presented its audiences with noteworthy performances. The members of this organization are, of course, genuinely interested in music and possess far above average skill in playing. The orchestra often works in collaboration with other groups, as the Concert Choir or the Dramatic Society, and displays its talents by providing background music for the rest of the program. At other times it provides the only attraction, but whether alone or blending with other groups, the orchestra will always assure B.H.S. of fine entertainment.

Let me have your attention.

Stop eating the music.

"Dig for the oyster" "Duck for the clam" Don't anyone reach for a fork please for this is only another meeting of the square dance club. "Everybody in and out to the bar, bar, bar," Mr. Bemis enthusiastically gives the calls as everybody squares their sets for another afternoon of fun in the fifty by fifty room. These members work hard perfecting many intricate dances of Mr. Bemis's never-ending repertoire. The way they go at it, you wonder where all the energy is coming from. "A do poso with your right hand and then a left to your partner . . ." Whew!

Few enthusiastic students realize just how much of their school spirit is due to the efforts of the Pep Club. Throughout the football season, especially, this club has gone all out to encourage the team to greater feats and the students to more energetic cheers. Even an Olympic star needs support to spur him on, and Brookline's athletes are certainly no different. For this reason the members of the pep club have consistently engaged not only in regular rally and game activities, but also in the selling of beanies, bookcovers, sweatshirts, megaphones and the traditional carnations on "red and blue day". Because of the work of the Pep Club the "healthy lungs" of Brookline's students will always be put to use in a positive way, to cheer the teams to victory.

Dig that rythm.

Physics Club

A thorough knowledge of physics is so practical and of so much importance in the world of today, that such an organization as the Physics Club plays an extremely important role in B.H.S. Electricity, gravity and other such subjects are discussed and investigated by the scientifically minded members of the club, and throughout the year several interesting experiments add to the enjoyment of the agenda. Many of these experiments are further developed through projects for the annual Science Fair, at which Brookline High's physicists demonstrate their interest and skill in this increasingly important field. Our modern civilization could not have been built if men had not probed and discovered the mysteries of physics; for this reason Mr. Wells and the Physics Club can certainly look forward to a useful and profitable future.

Radio Club

Good disc jockeys, radio announcers and engineers don't just happen. Much training is required for them to develop real skill in this line, but no more than a little interest and enthusiasm is needed for students to become active members of the Radio Broadcasting Club. Whether students are interested in radio broadcasting as a career or as a hobby, they still enjoy participating in the activities of the club. These include not only taking part in the directing and engineering of radio scripts, but also participating in actual broadcasts. Each year members of the Radio Broadcasting Club are heard on Bob Clayton's "Boston Ballroom" to report on Brookline High's favorite records and recording stars. Besides this annual event, there are frequent trips to radio stations in the Boston area.

Here it is, that special occasion you've been waiting for all this time. But wait. . . . Is the table set correctly? Do you know how to make proper introductions? Are you neatly groomed? A Brookline girl has none of these problems for she's already learned all the answers at the latest meeting of the social customs club. This organization is devoted to teaching our girls proper etiquette and how to be socially correct at all times. The members put their acquired knowledge to good use at all the club-sponsored teas and parties given each year. So you see Miss Post, you have nothing on us!

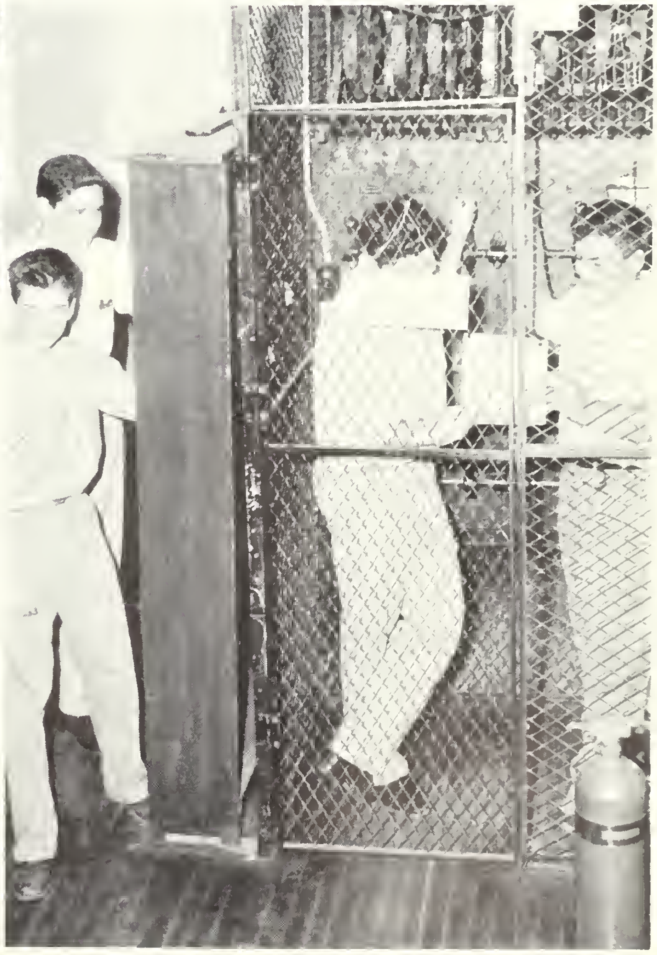
Stage and Electrical Staff

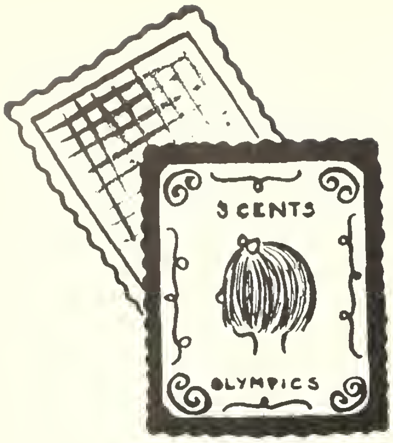
Don't work too hard now

Turn on the juice man



The lights go on and off on schedule, telephones and door bells ring, doors open and shut—And all on stage!

Playing a vital part in the success of any B.H.S. production is the industrious stage and electrical staff, setting up props, watching sound effects, and doing any number of backstage jobs. These are the unsung heroes of the stage. There's little applause given to the student who sets up the public address system, but what would the speaker do without it? So much depends upon such jobs being well done, that the stage and electrical staff should be given a note of thanks by all of B.H.S.



Brookline High's many philatelists eagerly await each meeting of the stamp club where they not only exchange and share their varied collections but add immeasurably to their understanding of all nations. Any student who wishes to collect, trade or just learn more about stamps is cordially invited to attend each weekly meeting. Stamps from all over the world are brought in, discussed, and evaluated so by the end of the year these collectors have added new knowledge, interest and variety to their albums.

With such speakers as Arik Makleff presented to enlighten students of Brookline High, it is no wonder that interest and enthusiasm in the "Student Forum" has grown tremendously. Designed to bring topics of current national and international importance to the direct attention of the student, this club plays a unique part in the school's extra-curricular program.

With history exploding about our ears every moment, Marilyn Misner, president of this club, has taken many opportunities to bring us speakers who play key roles in world affairs. In this way we often have more than one point of view on the complicated world situations.

Climaxing one of the most frustrating seasons in the annals of the B.H.S. gridiron, the Red and Blue bowed to a highly touted Newton contingent, 42-14 on Thanksgiving Day. Previously, the Downesmen had lost eight games and won one, their one victory coming over Saugus, 20-6.

Considering the rebuilding job of filling ten slots vacated by last year's seniors, however, Coaches Downes and Schluntz did a commendable job in welding together a machine which showed spirit and hustle throughout the campaign.

Constituting the list of graduating seniors are: Captains Walter Convey and George Moses, Rod MacLead, Bob Flaherty, Wesley Geffkin, Dave Troy, Mike Springer, Paul Thompson, Dick Adler, Jim Hughes, Bob Freedman, George DiGioia, George O'Leary, Larry McNulty, Frank Marony, and Joe Jolley.

With almost all the starting team returning, next year's squad should have a winning season and should allow Messrs. Downes and Schluntz to breathe easier.

VARSITY HOCKEY—Row 1: Muldowney, Jockson, Buckley, Borofsky, Fahey, Love, Brown, Mr. McConn. Row 2: Moses, Hegarty, Ritchie, Pons, Thompson, Hughes, Cushing, Troy.

Under the supervision of Coach McCann, the Brookline sextet finished the league season in second place this year in the Eastern Mass. League with 5-1-1 record.

The most attributable factor to the hockey team's success was the superlative goaltending of Bob Ritchie, who gained two shutouts and only allowed five goals by him in the seven games.

No less outstanding were the defensemen Bob Pons, who made a starting berth on the Eastern Mass. all-star team and John O'Neill plus forwards Captain Paul Thompson, Bill Muldowney, Fred Love, George Moses and Ray Brown.

With returning veterans Muldowney and Brown plus the support of Coach Howard's freshman six, next year's team should bring more of the same success to Brookline.

This year's varsity baseball squad is blessed with seven lettermen from last year's team. They are pitcher Bob Ritchie, first baseman Larry McNulty outfielder, Ken Carter, second baseman Denny Miller, outfielder Jim Earley, third baseman Steve Brown, and catcher Bob Pons.

Bolstering the squad are newcomers from Mr. McCann's Jayvees and from Mr. Jordan's freshman nine. With this wealth of experience, Coach Fitzgerald, who is now in his 30th year of coach of the varsity nine, has welded together an efficient machine and is looking forward to another successful campaign.

Other aspirants to the field from the Jayvees are, Ed Hurwitz, Alan Ashman, Joseph Paul, and Sam Pearlman. Managing the team is Steve Fraindin.

Harrison, who is the state 18 years and younger champion, is only a freshman and has made several tours throughout the country and Canada during the past summer.

With this dazzling array of talent, Coach McCabe is optimistic about the coming season.

Golf

"Fore!" A tiny white ball sails through the air, lands on the green, and rolls into a little cup. Another hole-in-one! But that's typical of the BHS golf team. The team, comprised of Paul Klapper and the Webber twins, can be frequently seen at the Municipal Golf Course, clubs in hand, practicing under the direction of Mr. Wells.

The golf craze, which has been sweeping the nation, has also taken BHS. Accordingly, we can boast of a capable, hard-working team, spurred on by the enthusiastic encouragement of Mr. Wells. Who knows, someday in the near future our BHS golf stars will shine at national tournaments.

Sparking the team was shot-putter, Earle Beasley and miler, Bob Weeks. Beasley broke the league record with a 53 foot 10 inch heave and finished second in the B.A.A. meet with a throw of 54 feet 6¼ inches. Then in the State Meet, he eclipsed all the previous records with a 58 foot 5 inch toss.

Also outstanding were Paul Klapper, Ed Goorno, Jim Earley and Jim Hamburger.

Leading the team was Bob Weeks, who established a new course record by running the two and one-half mile distance in 12:46.5. The rest of the team was composed of Jim Hamburger, Dave Shikes, Ron Davis, Paul Sibley, Fred Halberstadt, Don Keaney, and Pete Gens.

In the State Meet the harriers placed third in a field of sixteen, missing by one second the chance to compete in the New England Championships.

Field Hockey

Although there are no rallies to spur them on to victory, the BHS Girls' Field Hockey team abounds with spirit and enthusiasm. Its motto indeed may be "rough and ready," for the girls play a hard and fast game. This autumn saw fourteen upper-house girls wielding hockey sticks and wearing leg-guards, practicing about twice a week at Elior field.

Field hockey is fast becoming one of the most popular girls' sports at BHS. It has often been termed "girls' football," for there's plenty of excitement in every game.

The team, composed of Lincoln and Roberts House girls, consists of Bunny Griffin, Eleanor Fichter, Winnie DeWire (Manager), Helena Grady (Captain), Dotty Sideris, Barbara Tarris, Judy Nordstrom, Juliette Houle, Judy MacLeod, Diane DeGeorge, Pat Kirrane, Carol Peltier, Brenda Fitzpatrick, and Martha Newhall. Mrs. Brusko is the faculty advisor.

The Olympic games are a symbol of the world that we, the youth of today, want to build for tomorrow. Throughout its history the Olympics has always represented the spirit of sportsmanship, fair play, and good will among competitors.

Each man, regardless of race, color, or creed has an equal opportunity to prove his worth and to achieve success for himself and for his country. This success is judged solely on merit. No political manipulation or threatenings have any effect on the outcome.

Perhaps our ideas seem idealistically foolish but we feel that man can achieve anything that he sincerely wishes to attain.

The students of Brookline High School have similar opportunities to those competing in the Olympic games. When he enters as a freshman he has equal opportunities. Whether he will succeed or fail during his next four years depends entirely upon his own industry and determination. He is not discriminated upon or taken unfair advantage of. The rewards that await him upon completion of high school are less glorious than an Olympic medal but far more important and decisive.

But whatever he does he should never forget the principles of the Olympics: sportsmanship, fair play, and honest determination.
